Two Lose Lives In Attempt To Save Boy From Drowning At Resort

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin
LACOMBE, Aug. 12.—Three persons were drowned in full view of scores of picnickers at Ehlings Beach, Gull Lake, Sunday afternoon, as two men went to the rescue of a drowning boy and lost their lives in a futile attempt to save his life. The dead are Stan Carter, 16, of Lacombe, Vincent Carter, 43, of Lacombe, Allan Stafford, 20, Ponoka.

According to eye-witnesses at the scene of the tragedy, the Carter boy had been playing with an inner tube in about five feet of water when the tube was noticed to drift from his reach and he was alone in difficulty. Allan Stafford, who was sitting on the beach with Stan Carter, heard the Carter boy's cry for help and rushed to his rescue, but was drowned as he made a valiant effort to bring the boy in. Vincent Carter, father of the boy, also rushed into the water to the rescue of the pair but apparently became entangled with the other victim while under water and also drowned.

Forty-five minutes after the tragedy the body of Vincent Carter was brought to shore by George Brewer and a corps of volunteer workers. Dr. F. D. Locke, Leslie Matheson, and others tried artificial respiration on the body for forty minutes without results.

Body of Stan Carter and Stafford were brought ashore after Mr. Carter's body was brought to shore by Constable Christensen of the R. C. P., aided by scores of volunteers in boats.

The elder Carter, a salesman for a Lacombe garage, is survived by his widow and six children. Mr. Stafford leaves behind his wife one child five weeks of age. Mrs. Stafford and her husband have been residing with Mrs. Stafford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hunter, in Lacombe.

The agreement runs to Oct. 31, and provides for consideration of renewal in August. It was dated November 17, 1939.

One Of Biggest Air Battles Ever Fought Taking Place Off Southeast and South Coasts—R.A.F. Fighters Engaged Continuously

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Portsmouth dockyard, the biggest naval base in Britain, was attacked by enemy bombers today. It was officially announced tonight in a statement describing the third series of heavy German raids in four days.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The air ministry announced tonight that 39 German planes are known to have been destroyed in air battles around the coast of Britain today as the enemy staged their third series of major attacks in four days.

By WALLACE CARROLL
British United Press, Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin.
LONDON, Aug. 12.—Swarms of German planes attacked the British south and southeast coasts today in what London newspapers reported as "one of the biggest air battles ever fought."

Play-by-play reports of air battle after air battle along the British coast indicated the fighting was on a scale comparable with that yesterday when 400 German planes were employed. It was evident that the Germans were employing several hundred planes but there was no immediate official estimate of the exact number.

British fighter planes were engaged almost continuously. By 4 p.m. unofficial compilations of German losses placed the figure at about 20.

At mid-afternoon anti-aircraft fire drove off eight dive-bombers which tried to attack a southeast coast point but a little later 23 more dive bombers appeared nearby, dropped their bombs and were chased out to sea by British fighters.

Sunday's fighting took an official toll of 60 German fighters and bombers—and an unofficial toll of 65—during a mass assault which saw an estimated 400 planes hurled against south and east coast objectives. British losses yesterday were placed at 24 planes.

Unofficial and incomplete reports today lifted total German plane losses since June 18 to more than 400, according to British coast, but the number still was going on. The London Evening News on its front page declared that "one of the biggest air battles ever fought is taking place this afternoon off the southeast and south coasts."

The battle appeared to be a follow-up to the terrific raids carried out by the Germans against the south coast of England last night. THREE RIVERS, Que., Aug. 12.—Kenneth Kerr of Three Rivers was killed and a companion received serious injuries when their private airplane crashed in a field.

Between attacks I rushed with other onlookers to gather shell fragments. We found machine gun bullets embedded in the concrete a few feet from where we stood. Anti-aircraft guns thundered a nerve-racking din 100 yards away.

The raiders screamed down—sometimes from 15,000 feet up—at the early morning sun, peering down on coastal balconies, barges. But from the ground and in the air the Royal Air Force gave them a hot reception.

CANADA SET TAKE STOCK OF MANPOWER

National Registration Will Get Underway On August 19

By R. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—In one of the greatest demonstrations of mass co-operation ever displayed in this country, Canadians were preparing this week to take stock of its manpower resources in the national registration to start August 19.

The directing genius of the national registration, Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, of the department of national war service, reported Monday that first reports on industrial registration indicated that volunteer workers could register an individual in five minutes, though the time ran to 20 minutes at the start. Industrial organizations were permitted to set up their own booths and register employees in advance of the general public.

"We are in touch all over the country," Mr. Davis said, "and everything seems in good working order." A newspaper campaign designed to inform the public on filling out forms was launched Monday and will continue all week. The public is asked to study the published form before going to register next week.

Since parliament closed, members have taken charge of registration work in their constituencies. Virtually everywhere large voluntary organizations have been created.

Today's War Moves

By J. W. T. MASON
British United Press War Expert
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin
REPORTS from London now are suggesting that Great Britain's confidence in victory does not depend on starving the German people next winter into capitulation.

The British censor has passed a dispatch stating it is "doubted that the food blockade would prove to be totally effective in starving out Germany."

The implication is that Great Britain thinks it possible Germany can obtain sufficient food from conquered territory to eliminate an extreme condition of hunger next winter among the German people, regardless of what happens to the captive populations. This belief follows closely upon recent statements by British leaders that Great Britain is preparing soon to develop offensive warfare since no conflict can be won solely by defensive means.

The British fleet is now operating offensively in its blockade activities but more than that may be essential to win the war for Britain. The blockade is reducing Germany's food supplies despite security by Germany of conquered harvests.

Harding, himself, as the man they intended to stop the attack. While these attacks were being planned, the British fleet was being used to attack the coast of the enemy.

POLICE POSSE SEARCHES FOR FLEEING MAN

Waskatenau Farmer Is Sought After Attacking Wife With Knife

Large posse of R.C.M.P. and residents of the community are searching the bush country around Waskatenau, about 60 miles northeast of Edmonton, for Andrew Kapty, 32, farmer, who fled from his farm home at 12:30 noon Sunday after making a savage attack on his wife with a carving knife.

For three weeks she has been confined to her home by the wound which was inflicted on her arm by the knife. According to a report received at "K" division headquarters of the R.C.M.P. by Staff Sergeant Bryant, the Kapty's live on a farm six miles north and three miles to the east of the town of Waskatenau. Italy Charges Grecians With Aiding Britain

Mussolini's Propaganda Guns Turned On Athens Following Reported Beheading Of Obscure Albanian Minority Leader

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Exchange Telegraph Company, British news agency, reported today that disorders were spreading through Italian-annexed Albania as tribal leaders allegedly defied an Italian order requisitioning food and cattle for the army. A fight followed, and the report said the Italians had suffered 100 casualties in a clash with Albanians near the Yugoslav border.

ROME, Aug. 12.—Italy turned her propaganda guns on Greece today, charging the Greeks with supplying oil to British warships and planes and conniving with Britain in "plots" along the border of Italian-conquered Albania.

The reported beheading of an obscure Albanian minority leader by Greek border raiders touched off a violent press campaign reminiscent of those by Germany against Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Britain was brought into the picture by the newspaper Il Popolo Di Roma, which charged that British warships and airplanes operating in the Mediterranean against Italy were fueling at Greek bases.

Greece, central friend of Britain, received a pre-war British guarantee of her territory. At the time this guarantee was given, it was in Rome, said the Italian newspaper, that the Greek king, King George II, was crowned. It was also in Rome, the paper continued, that the king of Greece, as proclaimed by the Italian government, was crowned.

Italy, however, is not a member of the League of Nations, and has no right to interfere in the internal affairs of other nations. Italy, however, is not a member of the League of Nations, and has no right to interfere in the internal affairs of other nations.

GUARDS FAMILY NAME AGAINST PRESS REPROACH

LONDON, Aug. 12.—British headline writers found the word "nobility" to fit "unimpeachable" and "unblemished" type—and the public adopted the word.

But the Guards family, proud of its long fighting history, is not happy about it and demands that the press think up some other name.

English Townsfolk Wend Way to Church As Planes Scream Overhead in Big Battle

By ROBERT E. BURNELLE

ON ENGLAND'S SOUTHEAST COAST, Aug. 12.—From a balcony spattered with machine-gun fire and jarred by deafening bombardment, a new chapter in the Battle of Britain unfolded today in a sky thick with airplanes and with their munition-puffs from anti-aircraft shells.

Britain Launching Drive to Increase Exports to States

By BREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Britain has launched a new drive to increase her export trade to the United States. She has the twin goals of strengthening cash balances in New York to pay for guns, munitions, aircraft and tanks; and supplying United States markets with goods hitherto supplied by nations no longer accessible to American buyers because of the British blockade of Germany and Nazi-occupied countries.

PLANS ADVANCE FOR CALLING UP OF MILITIAMEN

Enlistment Deadline For Non-Permanent Force Comes August 15

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—With the deadline for voluntary enlistment in the Non-Permanent Active Militia of Canada only three days away, arrangements for handling the men who will be called into the militia at the rate of 20,000 a month are progressing steadily, Defence Minister J. L. Ralston said at a press conference over the week-end.

Strength of the Canadian Active Service Force, the full-time military in Canada stood at 106,183 on August 8 and on the same date that of the Non-Permanent Active Militia was 63,549, Col. Ralston stated. These indicate an increase of approximately 4,000 in the active service units in Canada. These are the units of the 3rd and 4th divisions and nine infantry battalions outside the divisions which are being mobilized.

During the winter, Col. Ralston said, the department has the problem of housing the C.A.S.F. with more than 100,000 men, more than 20,000 militiamen who will at all times be in the 39 training centres.

The training centres are additional premises and will not interfere with accommodation of the C.A.S.F. The latter will spend the winter in the large camps at Didsbury in Saskatchewan, Camp Borden, Pelawawan, and Barrfield in Ontario and Valcartier in Quebec.

The first men called into the militia after voluntary recruiting will start training each week in October, the minister said. Probably two full training periods would be run off before the Christmas season.

In the training centres the men will receive a basic training, suitable for initiation into any branch of the service. It will consist mostly of squad drill, discipline, gas training and marching. An ample supply of rifles is available for the centres.

Medical examination of the men called up by age groups, starting with age 21, will be carried out locally by medical officers under the command of national war service. Men who fail to measure up to army standards will not be given training and the local examination will avoid the necessity of men failing to measure up and returning home if rejected.

As militiamen they may turn out for the voluntary parades and drills of their units throughout the year and a year after they may be called up again for whatever further training is decided upon in the light of the military situation. At all times they are liable to be called up for service in Canada in case of emergency.

Britain is said to have some billions of dollars in reserve gold and bank balances in the United States to pay for war supplies, in addition to the British Empire's annual output of about $750,000,000 in newly-minted gold.

JESUS CHRIST REAL NEMESIS OF POLITICIANS

Lord's Banishment Of the Money Changers Said Significant Story

CALGARY, Aug. 12.—Those people who believed that religion had been banished from the world by the money changers of the temple, will find a significant story in the banishment of the money changers from the temple by Jesus Christ.

Christ had proved his Messiahship by raising Lazarus from the dead, but when he "threw the money changers out of the temple," it was the last straw, Mr. Aberhart said. It was a tender spot when he interfered with their method of making money.

There was a place in the lives of all decent men for righteous indignation, he said, that he had the people at the present time, Mr. Aberhart continued.

Christ knew his act would be an offence, but he took his stand on the matter, the speaker continued. God called others to take a stand.

Mr. Aberhart read from a letter in which his correspondent urged him not to allow "the money-changers' body, even in war time" to cause him to be silent on such matters as religion, the church and the people.

So, continued Mr. Aberhart, he would speak.

He discussed money matters and said that the "whole world had become a den of thieves," far exceeding the machinations of money changers in Christ's day.

Later in the service the Premier announced that after his return from a holiday at the coast he had decided to visit his constituency and hoped to have a number of small meetings in Calgary.

British Columbians Now Starting to Take Action Against Jap Population

By CHARLES R. LYNCH
British United Press

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 12.—The people of British Columbia are losing their former complacency at the large percentage of Japanese on this side of the Rockies.

Only two months ago, when I first arrived in Vancouver, the attitude of "Well, they're here, so what can we do about it?" still persisted. Since then, things have moved quickly in the Far East and with these developments the people of British Columbia, and Vancouver particularly, began to see the situation in a new light. They seemed to become suddenly aware of something that strikes as Easterner in moment he alights from the train here.

One of the first things that struck me in British Columbia was the Japanese monopoly of the confectionery and fruit business here the way the Chinese do in the east. They also are extensive fruit growers. The smaller dry cleaning establishments in Vancouver are mostly owned by Japanese. Many Japanese names appear on the directories of B. C. lumber and mining concerns.

Driving up the Fraser River valley, one is told that the many paper, pulp and mill companies are operated by Japanese. They are frantically working to get a square inch of soil. Hundreds of acres of land are being cleared and planted with rice and wheat.

The Japanese are large-scale farmers in British Columbia. They are working to get a square inch of soil. Hundreds of acres of land are being cleared and planted with rice and wheat.

Worn out from warning British Columbia of the Japanese infiltration is Aid. H. D. Wilson of Vancouver. He started four years ago, and has been campaigning on the subject ever since.

Wilson claims the Japanese are a menace, pure and simple. They are trying to get into British Columbia in every way possible, he says. "Even to the extent of being smuggled across from Japan by freighters and being landed at remote places on the coast."

Finally, this week Aid. Wilson got some action. After hearing his 10-minute indictment of the Japanese, Vancouver city council decided to "put 'er over."

Usually, they speak Japanese to one another, but all the second generation speak English.

The children, statewide mostly among themselves. They seem to have an air of uncertainty when playing with white children. In school, they have the reputation of being "pluggers"—of attaining good marks by having knowledge drilled into them.

to inform Ottawa it was considering cutting out all trading ventures to Japanese in Vancouver. International significance of the move prompted the move to commit Ottawa before taking action.

Whatever Ottawa does about the proposal, the reputation of the Vancouver city council gives an invaluable public feeling here now.

A glance at statistics places the situation in bold relief. Two years ago, of a total population in the province of almost 700,000, 30,000 were Japanese. There were 22,000 Chinese, but five times as many Japanese babies were being born than Chinese. In fact, in 1936, it was revealed that of 6,572 154 babies born in British Columbia, six were Japanese.

A survey made in 1938 revealed that the number of Japanese in the province had gone up 85 per cent since 1921.

More than 91 per cent of all the Japanese in Canada are in the province of British Columbia. And the great majority of those live in the Vancouver area. About 18,000 of them are ascertained government school children who have never seen Japan.

Last year, the Canadian Japanese Association issued a statement guaranteeing a statement guaranteeing that the Japanese population was static and not increasing. The figure 22,000 in 1938, 25,073 in 1939 was quoted. Dr. W. A. Carruthers, Victoria statistician, was asked to reply to this statement, and to reaffirm his submission to the Royal Commission on Japanese Immigration. He said that the Japanese population was 25,073 in 1939.

Attorney-General G. S. Wismer of British Columbia has just returned from Ottawa, where he pleaded with Dominion government officials to recognize the "peculiar" situation in British Columbia with regard to the foreign element. On his return he said he was satisfied federal officials were aware of the danger, and announced the "strange" home guard here would be increased.

Wisner is worried not only about the Japanese. At the 1931 census, one-fifth of British Columbia's total population was found to be foreign-born, or of foreign extraction. And statistics for 1936 showed there were 1,200 Germans and Austrians in British Columbia (excluding 1,000 Italians, 2,143 Germans, 1,000 Japanese and 1,000 Japanese).

GRACIE FIELDS THRILLS CROWD AT JASPER PARK

JASPER PARK, LODGE, Aug. 12.—An audience principally United States vacationists visiting in the Canadian Rockies cheered Gracie Fields for fully five minutes following her recent performance at Jasper Park Lodge, Saturday.

As Jasper for her first wartime scenic appearance at a mountain summer resort, Miss Fields sang before 500 persons. Her diaphragm songs were enlivened again and again by the enthusiastic American crowd.

"I'll be the best ambassador Jasper ever had," Gracie told park officials after her visit here. The English comedian, dancer, singer, and actress, who has been touring the world since King George and Queen Elizabeth's wedding, during their honeymoon, visited Jasper Park Lodge, Saturday.

Vessel Blown Up When 'Degaussing' Gear Switched Off
LONDON, Aug. 11.—This story tells how effective the "degaussing" equipment is in insulating ships from the magnetic mines Germany stores along its coast.
A neutral ship several weeks ago was heading for Sunderland and had its engine under way. Thinking it a waste of electricity to keep the "degaussing" gear in operation while the ship was at anchor, the captain ordered it switched off.
As soon as the engine turned the switch, the ship blew up. It had been anchored over a magnetic mine.
